

Nicole Jane Home, May 2011

NICOLE JANE HOME

May 11, 2011

she's so sophie...

Filed under: Articles, Cooking, Design, For Fun, Giveaways, Household tips, Uncategorized, Wallpaper, entertaining — Tags: Caroline Conran, Cotswolds, giveaway, House Beautiful, In Style, Japanese design, Jasper Conran, Limoges, Living Etc., Michelle Obama, Obama, pink wallpaper, porcelain, porcelain tableware, red chairs royal wedding, Sebastian Conran, Sophie Conran, Sophie Conran B&Q wallpaper, Sophie Conran Chateau wallpaper, Sophie Conran For Temple Guiting, Temple Guiting, Terence Conran, Tom Conran, wallpaper, whoopie pie, Will & Kate, win, win sophie conran, yellow flowers — jennifer @ 10:30 am

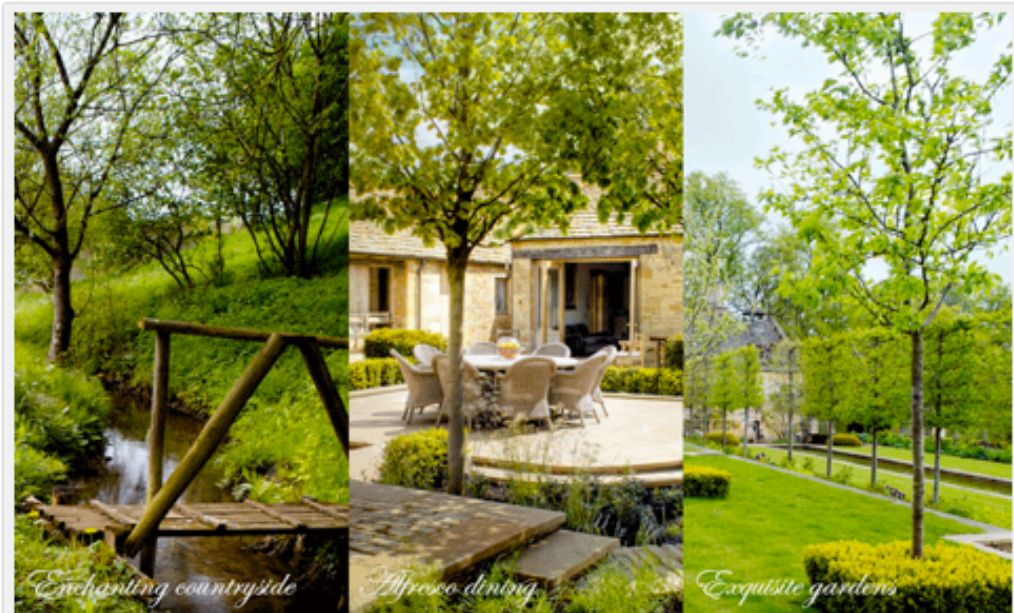

Knees shaking...dry throat...and the ever-present threat of two ill-behaved dogs on the verge of hysterical barking...

You guessed it! That was me dialing the phone to call my design idol—Sophie Conran—who kindly agreed to be interviewed. When I heard her cheerful, "Hello", I was instantly at ease—she's even more personable and interesting than I imagined.

Sophie's accomplishments are vast in the world of design and good taste, including work as the entertaining editor for LI Style, writing entertainment and recipe features for Living Etc., and writing for House Beautiful about what makes a house a home. Not to mention all of her cookbooks and designs in tableware, glassware and wallpaper.

Sophie also turned a 15th century manor into a retreat—Sophie Conran for Temple Guiting—for country weekends in the Cotswolds. It's looks and sounds absolutely idyllic—I can just imagine how beautiful it would be for a wedding! (Mark, if you're reading this...take it as a huge HINT for our 25th Wedding Anniversary...no point being subtle!!!!!!)

Sophie Conran for Temple Guiting

Sophie Conran for Temple Guiting